

Nature

The Way (from the Tao Te Ching) knows all that is necessary for us to complete ourselves in time. It is Nature and it knows what to do when we let it be.

The Eternal Way

We are complete
Destined to heal
It is the eternal Way.

As we damage we heal
As we damage we heal
As we damage we heal.

Not a choice; healing is natural
Stop damaging!
And healing will complete.

We are complete
Destined to heal
It is the eternal Way.

Love chases itself to remember

All that we call 'life' is Love in denial. It is the nature of rejection to attempt to right itself and this is what causes the movement we call Nature (or energy) to happen – the world to happen. All is rejection, even plant and animal life. However, the equanimity of plants and animals allows a more frequent return to Love (recurrence). Destroy a flower and it will say 'You can't destroy me for I am also over there and there....'

Energy has a natural reaction of healing - a countering action that initiates from our own completeness. There is no choice in this because our completeness cannot be split without a response. This countering activity seeks to return our loss and tracks it like a loyal servant. This is our constant promise and as our denial increases so also the countering responses (wars, genocides, personal tragedy etc.). Energy's healing response is what we call nature. We observe the higher orders of response and their constant entreating equanimity, but still we do not see. We have become blind to all that we can't control and control is now our master.

Our need to control is a measure of our removal from equanimity and the response to our denial has grown to become such a force that we are caught in a stranglehold. This is not energy's fault for it is only acting as a pendulum to balance; a return to center; a healing reaction. Energy is Love's instrument and the level of our denial has now turned it into a fierce adversary for the protection of ignorance.

This is our self-imposed stranglehold, a tragic necessity and our catch-22. It now requires higher awareness for us to break this grip. We must come to understand how we have done this to ourselves - how we have made this ignominious force into a balancing necessity. We must come to understand that continuing to manipulate energy for our perceived advantages is not a straight-forward deal, in that it always comes with a catch that transfers power to this force of ignorance; this omnipresent master of control; our antidote.

When we are unaware of how energy works we become its prisoner, when we are energy aware it becomes our toy. We are responsible because we create it all. We are God, chasing ourselves through energy and bringing to bear all the means necessary to get us to learn who we are. This is the table we have set. As God, we chase ourselves until the unrelenting pain forces us to finally say ENOUGH! Then we may release ourselves from control and begin the process to Love. It would be better to learn who we are without the pain. Read Eternal Recurrence ...a step out of time and learn about the true nature of Love. Available free at www.onepositive.com .

Few understand the availability and power of the great Love that bathes us in every moment.